The Mafia

Doe's first major case was the prosecution of John Gotti, the head of the Gambino crime family. Gotti was one of the most powerful and feared mobsters in New York City. He was known for his ruthless tactics and his ability to evade the law.

Drug Kingpins

After the Gotti trial, Doe turned his attention to drug kingpins. He prosecuted some of the most notorious drug traffickers in the world, including El Chapo and Joaquin "El Chapo" Guzman.

Enron Thieves

In 2001, Doe was appointed to lead the Enron Task Force. The task force was charged with investigating the Enron Corporation, which had collapsed in a massive accounting scandal.

Doe's investigation uncovered a massive web of fraud and corruption at Enron. He charged several top executives with crimes, including fraud, conspiracy, and money laundering.

The Enron trial was one of the most complex and high-profile white-collar crime trials in history. Doe's team of prosecutors worked tirelessly to build a case against the defendants.

In 2006, several top Enron executives were convicted of fraud and other crimes. The convictions were a major victory for law enforcement and helped to restore confidence in the financial markets.
